Sales and Use Tax Exemptions for Agriculture

Are sales of agricultural equipment exempt from tax?

The sales and use tax does not apply to sales, including rentals, to a farmer of farm equipment used to raise livestock and poultry, prepare, irrigate or tend the soil, or plant, service, harvest, store, clean, dry or transport seeds or crops. Farm equipment that is used for traditional agricultural purposes is exempt from sales and use tax even if attached to real property.

Examples of farm equipment

Balers	Feed grinders
Beekeeping equipment	Feeders
Binders	Forage harvesters
Blowers	Grain handling equipment
Choppers	Haybines
Conveyers	Irrigation equipment
Corral Handling Equipment	Livestock/poultry fans
Cribs	Milk cans
Crushers	Milking machines
Cultipackers	Milk coolers
Diggers	Mowers
Drags	Poultry equipment
Rollers	Rollers
Scales	Rotary hoes
Drills	Seed cleaners
Dryers	Seeders
Dusters	Shellers
Egg handling equipment	Sorters
Elevators	Storage tanks
Farm graders	Sprayers
Farm loaders	Subsoilers

What else is included in this exemption?

Both replacement parts and components, including hydraulic oil, are also exempt.

Are there any exemptions for food processing?

Yes. If a farmer is engaged in processing food for sale, there are exemptions available for purchases of capitalized equipment and consumables. These exemptions are explained in Business Tax Tip #9 - Sales and Use Tax Exemptions for Production Activities.

Does the tax apply to sales of livestock?

No. Sales, for agricultural purposes, of livestock, including poultry, are not taxable. Also exempt are sales of feed or bedding for livestock. The raising of horses for breeding purposes is an agricultural purpose, but the maintenance or sale of riding, show or race horses is not. The raising of livestock by members of 4-H or similar organizations for agricultural educational purposes qualifies for tax exemption, but the maintenance and sale of pets, dogs for breeding purposes and animals for testing purposes does not.

Are there any exemptions for agricultural supplies?

Yes. When sold for agricultural purposes, seeds (including plants and seedlings), fertilizer, lime, fungicide, herbicide and insecticide are exempt. These items are exempt when used for raising vegetables at home but are not exempt when used to maintain a flower or other decorative garden or lawn. The tax does not apply to sales of containers used by a farmer to transport farm products to the market or to sales of baler twine or wire. Fuel for use in farm equipment or a farm tractor is also exempt.

Is aquaculture given the same treatment as agriculture?

Yes. Commercial aquaculture and agriculture are treated the same way for sales and use tax purposes.

Are tax numbers needed to claim agricultural exemptions?

No. It is not necessary for purchasers to register with the Comptroller's Office in order to claim agricultural exemptions.

What records of sales should vendors who sell agricultural equipment and supplies maintain?

When the record of sale does not clearly include all elements necessary to justify exemption, a vendor may ask for a signed statement to indicate that the customer is a farmer or that the purchases will be used only for agricultural purposes. Even if a certification is provided, a vendor must collect the tax, if he or she knows or should know that the purchase does not qualify for exemption.

What kinds of items are not exempt?

Only those items sold under the specific conditions described in this publication are exempt. Sales of hand tools, carpentry, cleaning and maintenance supplies, materials to be incorporated into real property, and materials purchased for personal, rather than agricultural use, are subject to the sales and use tax.

Examples of non-exempt items

Antifreeze	Motor Oil
Barbed wire	Pails
Brooms	Paint
Cement	Paint brushes
Clothing	Posthole diggers
Detergents	Pruners
Electric drills	Rakes
Fencing material	Riding lawnmowers
General water systems	Roofing materials
Hammers	Sandpaper
Home appliances	Saws
Incinerators	Shovels
Light bulbs	Snow blowers
Lubricants	Three-wheeled vehicles

Are there any special provisions for sales by farmers?

Yes. The tax does not apply to the sale of an agricultural product by a farmer. However, sales of flowers, sod, decorative trees, shrubs and any other products usually sold by a nursery or horticulturist do not qualify for this exemption.
